Chinese Admit Heavy Defeat of the Imperial Forces at Tung Chow.

LONDON, Aug. 17, 3:45 a.m. - [By Atlantic Cable.] A cablegram to Vienna from Hongkong announces the capture of Peking; but the Austrian government, like other European powers, is still without confirmation of this report.

An official telegram dated Taku, August 14, has been received at Rome which asserts that the attack on Peking began Monday; that Sir Claude MacDonald, the British Minister, had opened communication with the relieving forces, and that the allies have established their headquarters at Tung Chow.

Chinese officials in Shanghai are reported as admitting that the allies inflicted a heavy defeat on the Chinese imperial troops around Tung Chow, Sunday, and then marched direct to Peking. "This, if true, carries the Japanese official advices announcing the capture of Tung Chow one step farther.

The western powers, according to a dispatch to the Daily Express from Kobe, have accepted the proposals formulated by Japan for arranging an armistice, dependent upon the immediate delivery of the foreign legations to the allies, or the granting of permission to the allied forces to enter Peking and to guard the le- Prompt Action on Appeal of gations. Upon this basis, the correspondent says, Japan has already begun to negotiate.

Shanghai dispatches declare that the Chinese had intended to make a final attack upon the legations last Sunday, but whether the plan was carried out is not known there.

From the same place comes the statement that Vice-Admiral Seymour and Brig.-Gen. Creah have joined in the protest against the withdrawal of the British troops. All the morning papers which comment on the subject appeal to Lord Salisbury not to withdraw them, and dilate upon the serious results of such an action to British prestige.

American negotiations looking to a cessation of hostilities also receive considerable attention, favorable and otherwise, but all the editorials agree that too precipitate a withdrawal from Peking after the delivery of the legations would have a bad effect upon the Chinese situation.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.-[Excl spatch.] With the relief of Peking pparently close at hand, there has been lately a good deal of speculation about what the United States will do when its Minister has been rescued. erous stories purporting to outline he policy of this government have been printed in the newspapers throughout the country. Secretary of War Root, after today's Cabinet meeting, said this in answer to question that it will withdraw its troops after the Minister has been delivered. It has made absolutely no decision about what it will do. It knows only that effort will be put forward to rescue its Minister. When it gets him safe, it will decide then, and not till then, what is to be done next."

This refreshing statement by Secretary Root shows that this governme will see what its duty apears to be be-fore formulating policies. Apparently the President and his Cabinet are not worrying about the election in this reat question, and are not form

Secretary Root, who has been a guiding factor in the Chinese negotiations, was with the President before the meeting opened, presenting the Chinese communications, and to discuss the instructions already sent to Gen. The conclusions reached can be stated bert by reference to the succinct response of the United States government set forth in official announcement.

After the Cabinet meeting, the Amernovement of the troops and of Gen. movement of the troops and of Gen. Chaffee's authority to negotiate at the walls of Peking.

Beyond he important diplomatic exchanges of the day and the receipt of the Conger message, the chief interest centered in the exact whereabouts of the allied army. From Japanese sources came the most advanced information, first in the Tokio advices that Tung Chow had been occupied, and, later in the day, in an official dispatch from the Japanese Foreign Office to Minister Takahira, confirming the report. The Minister promptly communicated his information to the Department of State and it was accepted by the officials, including the Secretary of War, as the latest and most authentic news of the whereabouts of the relief column. Some delays had elapsed, however, since this occupation of Tung Chow, and there had been ample time to cover the twelve miles between that place and Peking. Whether the allied forces actually were there was the all-absorbing question, of which everyone in offitually were there was the all-absorb-ing question, of which everyone in offi-cial and unofficial life awaited word this was one of the reason, why it was regarded as futile to consider Li Hung

Choffee, but its contents were not made public. Although the officials regarded it as unimportant, it doubtless made the American commander aware of the fact that there was no deviation in the American atti-tude. A dispatch also was sent to which have been sent to Gen. Chaffee regarding his course in dealing with the Chinese situation. The Minister, while regarding the situation as critical, hopes that the instructions to the allied commanders may have reached them in time to provide for negotiations with a representative of his government, whereby the ministers will be escorted from Peking in safety.

IA. P. DAY REPORT.1

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says the general public is now tooking forward hopefully to the relief of Peking legations in the course of the next few days, and the Stock Exchange, which, for some time past, has been in the lowest depth of depression, became almost buoyant for a short time yesterday. The few Foreign Office officials left in town are by no means inclined as yet to lay aside the pessimism which has possessed them ever since the Asiatic crisis began. No doubt is entertained in Downing street as to the ability of the allied forces to make their way into the Tartar City of Peking in the course of the next few days, but there is stil Imuch misgiving as to what they may find when they get there.

but there is stil imuch misgiving as to what they may find when they get there.

A clipher message from Sir Claude MacDonald, which Sir Chih Chen Lo Feng Luh handed to the Foreign Office yesterday, is reassuring in so far that it shows that the ministers were alive a few days ago; that is, if dates in the message can be trusted. But its purport is much the same as that received by the Consui at Hongkong, and it represents the position of the legation as so desperate that it is tolerably certain they could not resist a sudden concerted attack by large numbers of Boxers and Chinese troops.

For these reasons, official experts here do not yet permit themselves to indulge in too confident hopes, notwithstanding Sir Chih Chen's declaration that the legations were certainly safe Sunday last. On receipt of the Chinese Minister's communication, which was immediately conveyed to Lord Salisbury by telegraph, the Premier sent instructions to the Foreign Office to send a reply in cipher to Sir Claude MacDonald. The message was of considerable length, and placed Sir Claude in full possession of the latest facts of the situation, including the progress of the relief force. It was handed to the Chinese Minister, who guaranteed its safe transmission to the hands for which it was intended.

One of the points of greatest importance at the present moment is the attitude of Germany. If the Kaiser should support France and Russia in opposing British action, a grave situation might easily arise.

Several of the evening newspapers comment rather unfavorably upon the German Emperor's speech with its uncomplimentary reference to Admiral Seymour's action in advancing with his small force from Taku.

The Westminster Gazette observes pertinently that if the British War Office and the admiralty were misinformed about the Chinese preparations, those of France, Germany, Russia, Austria and Italy were no wiser. However, this journal is comforted by being able to infer that on the Chinese question, generally, the policy of the German Emperor is identical with that enunciated by Mr. Broderick in the House of Commons; that is to say, he is in favor of the establishment of a strong pative government.

RUSSIA'S WORK EXCITES JAPAN.

IA.P. DAY REPORT.]

NEW TORK, Aug. 16.—A dispatch to the Herald from Washington says that Russia's occupation of New Chwang without adequate reason caused the decision to land troops at Shanghai, in which Great Britain is supported by Japan. Germany apparently is paying no heed to Russia's action in the north, but objects to Great Britain's policy at Shanghai and proposes to offset it by stationing a squadron there and landing troops to protect her interests.

This important information, just received in an official quarter, presents a comprehensive view of the attitude of four of the principal powers interested in the Chinese situation, with respect to the treaty ports of the empire.

The occupation of New Chweng by Russia has aroused great excitement in Japan. It took place, according to information received here. August 4, and though a dispatch received from Admiral Courrejolles received from Admiral Courrejolles received in Paris referred to the subsequent evacuation of the treaty port, nothing confirming it has been received here. There were a few Boxers on the outskirts of the town, but their operations were unimportant, and it was unnecessary for the Russians to occupy that port for the protection of foreign interests, as their government alleges.

Instead of leaving the administration protection of foreign interests, as their government alleges.

Instead of leaving the administration of the port in the hands of the Chineso officials, it is declared that the Russian commander, who acted in accordance with instructions from his superior general, took over the municipal government, administering justice in the courts and installing Russian officials to collect the customs duties. Russia, in fact, extended her sovereignty over the port. This procedure, in the face of repeated Russian declarations that the Cusar had no designs upon New Chwang, has deeply incensed the Japanese government.

TWO THOUSAND DROWN.

MINN RIVER OVERFLOWED. [A. P. DAT REPORT.] CHICAGO, Aug. 16.— Mrs. N. C. Marsh has just received a letter from her son, Rev. Benjamin C. Marsh, who for two years has been a missionary in the Anglo-Chinese school at Foo Chow.

"It is estimated that over two thousand persons were drowned by the overflow of the Minn River last week, The bridge of the Thousand Ages, as it is called, was broken in two places. Those who attempted to cross were never seen again. One of the wretched conditions was that they did not like to leave their floating homes because the robbers would come and carry of everything of value. Some one would always go with the house when it fell or floated away. After the flood the officials raised about $5000 and the missionaries $4000 to help the sufferers. "Although at present we go wherever and whenever we please, still we do not know when the Boxer trouble may break out here. The Viceroy of this place has sent guards to the foreign settlements."

"Second—That they vote for those candidates for Congress in their respective districts who will oppose the policy of imperialism.

"While we welcome any other method of opposing the rediction of Mr. McKinley, we advise direct support of Mr. Bryan as the most effective means of crushing imperialism.

"We are convinced of Mr. Bryan's sincerity and of his earnest purpose to secure to the Filipinos their independence. This position and the declarations contained in the platform of his party on the vital issue of the campaign, meet our unqualified approval.

BRYAN PILL BITTER.

LA.P. DAY REPORT.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind...) Aug. 16.—
The second day's session of the National Anti-Imperialist / League was called to order by ex-Gov. Boutwell, after a brief prayer by Rev. S. W. Sample, pastor of the People's Church of Minneapolis, and pending the report of the Committee on Resolutions, Dr. L. W. Habercom of Washington addressed the convention.

Dr. Habercom was received; with

I. W. Habercom of dressed the convention.

Dr. Habercom was received with much applause. He charged that the President had "done that which he had himself solemnly declared to be a great crime, and now attempts to shift the responsibility upon divine providence." He said he appealed more especially to those who, like himself, had come from a country over which a monarch reigns.

He said he appealed more especially to those who, like himself, had come from a country over which a monarch reigns.

"Is it not an act of imperialism," he continued, "that the President has entered upon this new adventure in China, without assembling Congress in extra session?

"The people who like myself have come from Germany knew to their sorrow what militarism meons. These are the last men who would vote to convert their country into an empire.

"The President has eaked, "Who will haul down the flag?" Now, I have always believed that the flag should be hauled down where it has no business. Is it the emblem of liberty in Manila and Porto Rico? There it floats over subject people, not free people.

"I have always been a Republican, but now I feel it my duty to fight the Republican party with all the ability I possess, because it has now become the porty of imperialism."

Dr. Habercom concluded with a declaration for Bryan.

Col. Charles R. Codman of Massachusetts read the report of the Committee on Resolutions, which took the form of an address to the American people, Col. Codman said that twenty-five members of the committee were unanimous in submitting a report to withhold their suport from McKintey and to give direct support to Bryan as the most effective means of checking imperialism. At the mention of Bryan's name the delegates arose in a body, and gave three cheers for the Democratic candidate.

Moorefield Storey of Massachusetts said he cordially joined in the statement of principles contained in the resolutions, but stated that he reserved the right to support a third candidate, if one was nominated who satisfied him hetter than Bryan.

Thomas M. Osborne of New Tork, leader of the "Nationalists," was ellowed to speak on the resolutions Osborne said there were many who could support neither McKindey nor Bryan, not believing it right to remedy one wrong by substituting another. He said: "We cannot trust the Democratic park as it stands today." [Cries of "Douth." "how much did Mark Hanna pay you to come Osborne continued: "I believe a third ticket must arise to command the suffrage and conscience of the voters. When you tie up a question of conscience with something which a large majority of your people do not believe in, you destroy the force."

Osborne moved an amendment striking out that portion of the resolutions which advised support of Bryan.

Col. Codman spoke against Osborne's motion. He thought the crisis in which the country stands needs immediate attention. "As one member of this congress." he said, "I do not hesitate to support Mr. Bryan. I propose to vote with the party which is right on the one great question now before the country."

TALKS IN POWERS CASE.

BRADLEY'S STRONG ASSERTIONS, [A. P. DAY REPORT.] GEORGETOWN (Ky.,) Aug. 18.—Victor Bradley, who continued his speech for the prosecution today in the trial of Caleb Powers, accused of complicity in the Goebel murder, likened the armed petitioners, who went to Frankin the Goebel murder. Ilkened the armed petitioners, who went to Frankfort, to a big highwayman who draws his pistol and "petitions" the traveler for his purse. He told the Jury that it had proved that Charles Finley had said Goebel would be killed within five days, and in less than that time, Goebel was lying quivering on the pavement. He size claimed that it had been proved that Caleb Powers had said: "If no one else will kill him, I will kill him myself;" that Henry Koutsey said Goebel could be killed from Powers's office and the assassing could run down into the basement and never be discovered." A few seconds after the shooting it is proved that Youtsey had run down into the basement. Through the barber shop, and back through the cast envirance in the office, next to Powers," naid Fradley.

When Bradley had concluded, G. H. Tinsley of Barbourville begon for the defenge. He said that one fact stood out above every other in this case, and that was that Pawers was not within fifty miles of Frankfort when Goebel was shot, had locked his office before, he left, and no one was locked in it, that he could not possibly have know who fired the shot or where it was fired from.

In his address at his home, Bryan said:

"I have sometimes been criticised for going away from home instead of staying here and having people come to see me, but I have felt, in the first place, that people could not come here as well as they could go to Canton. Lincoln is not in the center of a thickly-populated country, as Canton is, and our people have not the means of traveling without cost as they have in some parts of the country under some circumstances, and I have felt that it was a great deal cheaper for me to go and see the people than for me to compel them to come and see me. Bryan then discussed national issues at some length.

At the night meeting in the Capitol grounds there was a very large attendance and speeches were made by Bryan, ex-General Master Workman Sovereign and Mrs. Helen M. Gougar of Indiana.

Bryan's speech was addressed largely to Republicans, and announced his plan for the campaign to be an appeal to them rather than to Democrats, who were already convinced of the dangerous tendencies of the Republican party. He declared that he had not been called to retract anything he had said in the past on important subjects, but said he had irted to meet new issues as they presented themselves. Hence, while now glying special attention to imperialism, because it was a question of emergency, he had nothing to take back on the tariff question, or she silver question. Far from it. [A. P. DAT REPORT.] NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Shah of ersia has had an agent in this country for a fortnight examining the elec-tric trolley systems of Greater New York, preparatory to introducing electric travel between Teheran and a port on the Caspian. These ninety-three miles of trolley will be the long-est electric railway in Asia est electric railway in Asia.

The Shah's agent, John Marsdon Ward, an Englishman, has been for more than fifteen years attached to the personal service of the Shah, and has resided at Teheran. Frequent trips to Europe have kept him in touch with resided at Teheran. Frequent trips to Europe have kept him in touch with the progress of invention and art. He was a protégé of B. B. Hotchkis, the American inventor, and has introduced into the Shah's capital the telephone and other modern appliances, Since his arrival he has been investigating the trolley systems in the ckty, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Metropolitan having furnished him every facility.

Mr. Ward was found at the Secor ship yard at Bay Ridge, whither he had gone to give an order for a launch for the Shah's use at his winter residence on the Persian Guif near Busrathe Balsora of old Sinbad the sallor.

"I so to Philadelphia next week," he said, "to visit the Baldwin Locomotive Works with a view to making a report upon engines for use on the new railroad between Teheran and the Persian Guif. One and possibly a second line of railway will be pushed through to the suif with all possible speed. The roads will be built inrgely by Russian capital and Russian engineers.

"The general impression about Persian Guif. One and Russian engineers.

"The general impression about Pertuth. Persia is not a bad country to live in. I have a house at Teheran that has the most complete sanitary fittings. It contains a porcelain bath, purchased in Vienna. It is lighted with electricity and a telephone connects it with the palace and the various offices I visit. There are many hansom cabs in Teheran, and I generally drive in one. Most Americans and Europeans think we ride camels and camp out, but we don't.

"I do not wish to discuss His Majesty's affairs," added Mr. Ward. "My relations with His Majesty are purely business ones. I have nothing to dowith the policy of the government toward Russia or Great Britain. Not the slightest attempt has ever been made to interfere with my religious views. I am a member of the English church and serve my God in my own way.

"The Shah is a very intelligent ruler. His Majesty has been thrice to Europe, and on this occasion he has devoted much time to examining novelties at the Pa the progress of invention and art. He

IA. P. DAT REPORT.

(A. P. DAY REPORT.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The Census Office this morning announced the population of Greater New York (Manhattan and Bronx boroughs) at 2,680,600, the population of the borough of Manhattan, 1,850,093, and that of the Bronx, 200,607.

There are, besides the boroughs named, three other boroughs in Greater New York, viz: Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond. When the census of 1890 was taken the city of New York comprised all of what is now the borough of Manhattan and all of what is now the borough of Bronx, except the territory lying to the west of the East River, annexed January 1, 1898.

The population of New York City in 1890 was 1,515,401. On June 1, 1900, the foint population of the boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx was 2,660,890, representing an increase from 1890 te 1900, including the annexed territory above referred to, of 535,299, or 35.33 per cent.

POLO, GOLF AND TENNIS.

(A. P. NIGHT REPORT.)

DEL MONTE, Aug. 18.—Two contests were finished today, the polo tournament and the tennis singles tournament. The men's golf contest for the Del Monte cup reached the final round. Polo was the most interesting item on the day's programme, and practically everybody in the hotel, as well as crowds from Monterey and Pacific Grove, witnessed the manch. Considerable money changed hands over the result. The competing teams were B leam, Blues, the victors of Monday's match, and the A team, Reds, the victors of Tuesday's match, the members of each being: B. W. S. Hobart, Charles Dunphy, P. J. Carolan, C. Praed, A. J. S. Tobin, E. Tobin, J. Tobin, Jr., W. M. Parsons.

In a sudden rush to block a drive one of the horses ran into J. Tobin's, throwing both horses, Tobin's falling in him, slightly injuring him. After a few minutes' rest, however, he remaded his place in the game, playing ill the end. The victory went to the Blues by the close score of 4 to 3.

George Whitney came off victorious in the tennis singles, taking the first prize. The second went to his brother lobert. George Whitney defeated W. B. Godry, Jr., 0-6, 6-2, 2-6.

CHICO, Aug. 16.—The racing events at the Chico driving park today consisted of a 2:20-class pacing race for a purse of $1000; a 2:17-trot for a purse of $500, and a five and one-half furor sow, and a five and one-hair fur-longs running race for a purse of $100. The 2:20 pacing race was won by Goshen Jim in three straight heats. Dictatus won second money, Cloe thind and Bob fourth. The 2:15-class trotand Bob fourth. The 2:17-class trotting race was much more exciting, five heats being required to settle matters. Daimont, the favorite in the betting, was very lame and at the end of the fifth heat was barely able to walk from the track. El Moro, who was fifth in the first heat and third in/ the second, brushed up and won the next three heats. In the last heat, however, he was closely pressed by Arroyo. El Moro won first money, Arroyo second and Daimont third. Summary:

BURIED IN PAUPER'S GRAVE.

(A. P. DAY REFORT.)

SAN FRANCISCO. Aug. 14.—The Examiner says that Asa Packer Wilber, one of the heirs to the Excellent state left by Asa Packer, the Fransylvania ratiroad king and coal baron, has died in poverty in this city, and pusterlay was buried in a pauper's grave. He was a victim of the morphine habit, and until a few days agowrited at intervals for 3. A Bapardua, proprietor of a dramatic paper, to whom he assigned half of his prosbective estate. He was a nephiew of

The rowing events as arranged by the Regatta Committee include a race for fourisen-oar crews of the naval reserve from this city, Eureka, Santa Cruz, Santa Barbara and San Diego.

COMMISSIONS ON TAXES.

CASE BEFORE SUPREME COURT. CASE BEFORE SUPREME COURT.

IA. P. Night REPORT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—The question of the right of tax collectors and assessors of the various counties to collect a commission for the handling of State taxes was argued before the Supreme Court today. This is the case of the county of Yole against Controller Colgan, the county seeking to compel the Controller to honor its demand for over $26,000 as such commissions.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—The backbone of the insurrection is broken; most of the generals and leaders would if it were not for the slaber restarted and yellow journals at home. This talk of giving over the Philippines is simply fostering the hopes of these cutthronts and robbers, with Aguinaldo as chief among them all.

The intelligent, law-abiding and industrious natives are fast coming into the towns and resuming their former occupations.

Presidents have been appointed by the generals in compand and there are a seal to the towns and resuming their former occupations.

CLERK MAKES A CAPTURE.

(A. P. DAY REPORT.)

GAZELLE, Aug. 16.—Last night a robber attempted to burgiarise the store at Denny Bar, but the clerk, George Houston, was awakened before the robber succeeded in carrying off anything. Houston pursued the robber, firing several shots, one of which struck the burgiar in the head, causing him to surrender. The burgiar will not talk. He has been taken to Yreka.

Price states that since he left Syracuse he has put in his time dodging the authorities, and that he is worn but and ready to take what the courts may give him.

LETTER FROM LUZON. OPINION OF A SOLDIER ON STATE OF AFFAIRS THERE.

The Bill called The AFFAIRS THERE.

OF AFFAIRS THER

Tou say the factories are busy. I am glad to hear it, for that means good times to all. The time is not far off when many of Raeine's products will enter this market.

In all my travels here I have yet to see a wagon, a plow or anything in the way of modern agricultural implements. Old dilaoidated two-wheeled carts used to haul the products. Grooked sticks answer the purpose of a plow, and threshing is still done as it was a century or two ago; by the tramping of the feet. Iron shovels, rakes, axes? Yes; I have seen one or two.

rakes, axes? Yes; I have seen one or two.

The natives are nearly all dressed in homespun, no shoes except those worn by the well-to-do. I forgot to say that what little timber is used is cut into boards by the hand saw. Each town has one or two small wheeled victorias (carriages,) generally we find them the property of the priests. There are also some good harnesses, but they are mostly made of home product hemp.

About the only substantial thing you see here gre the churches. They are massive, and built of volcani: rock, some of the walls being eight and ten feet thick.

A wedding took place here the other night. All the officers were invited, and we all attended with the exception of the officer of the day and one in charge of each of the two companies located here. We all sat at the table with the bride, who looked quite fascinating in her pretty pina gwm, contrasted with her swarthy complexion. Later music and dancing was the programme. You can just tell the girls, though, that the best of them can't description.

The magistrate stated in advance that all prisoners before him should have a fair trial.

STORY OF THE RIOTING.

IA. P. DAY REPORT.!

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Peace was not restored in the anti-negro riot district until after 3 o'clock this morning. During the riot it is estimated that 560 police were on duty and ambulances from every hospital on the West Side were kept busy. A police estimate of the result puts the number of arrests forty.

The most determined and desperate hand-to-hand fight which occurred during the riot was that between Detective John Kennedy and the negro. Lloyd Lee. Lee acted like a madman when Kennedy ordered him to move on. Refusing to do so, he said to Kennedy:

"I know you. You are Thorpe's parting. The most determined and the negro. In the shoulder, inflicting a deep wound, in the shoulder, inflicting a deep wound, Kennedy pulled his revolver and fired.

The reserves of the station he denied knowing anything about Thorpe, and at the same time he slashed Kennedy in the shoulder, inflicting a deep wound, Kennedy pulled his revolver and fired.

AND REMINISCENCES, XIL—A TALK ABOUT LONGFELLOW

Nuremberg, which had been brought out by a local publisher. There is no better guidebook to the city than this poem, in which almost every locality of interest to the tourist is enumerated with its historical and poetical associations—the ancient castle, with Queen Cunigunda's linden in the courtyard, and the oriental window where the poet Melchior sat and sung Kaiser Maximilian's praises; the churches of St. Sebuld and St. Lawrence, with their marvels of art in bronze and marble; the public fountains "wrought with richest sculpture;" the house of Hans Sachs, "the cobbler-poet," and the grave of Albert Durer (it is curious that his house is not mentioned;) and the memories of the Minnesingers and the brave and thrifty burghers" of the great imperial city which in mediaeval times boasted that by its "toil and traffic, art and song" it "stretched its hand through every clime." Portions of "The Golden Legend," like the description of the cathedral at Strasburg and that of the old covered bridge at Lucerne, with its paintings of "The Dance of Death," are equally minute and graphic. At Bruges I had tried to find the Fleur de Bié, where the description of the cathedral at Strasburg and that of the old covered bridge at Lucerne, with its paintings of "The Dance of Death," are equally minute and graphic. At Bruges I had tried to find the Fleur de Bié, where the continents of the Rawen at Zurich, referred to in "Hyperion" (which, by the way, is also rich in matter for the continental tourist,)

"With a noisy and an unclean nest,
And a very, very long bill,"

sweet tongue Strengthened our hearts; or heard at night
Made all our slumbers soft and light."
Such was the poet, not only to his personal friends, but to the immensely wider circle who know him only through the medium of print. To them he seemed no less a personal friend, and they were recognized as personal friends by him. This is the keynote of the dedication of "The Senside and the Fireside," the volume published in 1849. It is doubtless familliar to many of my readers, but I may be pardoned for quoting the opening stanzas.
"As one who, walking in the twilight born was the headquarters of Gen. Ward in 1775, and the plan for fortifying Bunker's Hill is said to have been laid there.

Of these houses the Craigie mansion, as Col. Higginson notes in his delightful book on "Old Cambridge" (which the reader, if not aiready acquainted with it will find infinitely more interesting than anything I can write on the subject,) is much oftener inquired for by strangers than Elmwood or than the Holmes house was before its demolition fifteen or more years ago; and though this, as he adds, "might be partly due to associations with Washington," yet he is "confident that these made but a small portion of the whole interest in the abode." I am sure that the colonel is right. In the course of the thirty-eight years I have lived in Cambridge I have been asked by hundreds of friends and strangers to direct them to "Longfellow's house," and it was evident that it was chiefly for his connection with it that they wanted to see it. That Washington had occupied it for more than a year was a minor consideration, and perhaps due less to their interest in history than to what Longfellow had written about it in his verses "To a Child:"
"Once, ah, once within these walls One whom memory oft recalls, The Father of his Country dwelt."

Up and down these echoing stairs, Heavy with the weight of cares,

Up and down these echoing stairs, Heavy with the weight of cares, Sounded his majestic tread; Yes, within this very room Bat he in those hours of gloom, Weary both in heart and head." Weary both in heart and head."
However that may be, there are localities in Cambridge which are famous solely because they are mentioned in Longfellow's verse. A single line in "The Village Blacksmith" has given to the chestnut tree that overhung the smithy a lasting fame like that which Tennyson in "The Talking Cak" promised to the loquacious veteran of the forest, and when the tree was cut down in 1876 by a prosaic city government in widening a street it seemed an act of sacrilege hardly less flagrant than the felling of Shakespeare's mulberry tree, whereby the

SOME REJECTED

[OUR DAILY STORY.]

THERE was quite a collection of them. Indeed, so tightly did they fit into the flat tin box that every time the latter was dusted by the housemaid it seemed as though, in spite of the lock, the cover must fly open. They mutely told a story of unceasing effort in the literary line, effort that had evidently begun in the author's very bread and buttery days, for one fat manuscript was written in a round, painstaking hand and was artistically knotted with pale blue ribbon. Discouragement, however, had in time taken much of the sentiment out of the work and the last manuscript that the housemaid had dropped into the box had a severely legal look; there wasn't a suggestion of ribbon about it and it was typewritten.

"The seventeenth," ejaculated the red-cheeked servant as she turned the key in the lock. "Lor', how she does keep at 'em, poor dear!"

The manuscripts, themselves, once they had become acquainted, didn't have such a bad time of it. They halled each newcomer with zest, because, of course, he brought them news of the great, outside world and because, too, there was the story of his journey to tell. The Literary Young Person neversent her wares to the same publisher twice. She would not, she decided loftlily, give one of those horrid craatures a chance to snub her evore a sent remember of the summand and a fresh tale to unfold.

Today it was "McLeod of Craggan-croft" that was dropped into the box. Sootch dialect, the Literary Young Person had reasoned, was wonderfully popular and it wasn't so difficult to manage when you had a book to go by. So "McLeod of Craggan-croft" that was dropped into the box. Sootch dialect, the Literary Young Person had reasoned, was wonderfully popular and it wasn't so difficult to manage when you had a book to go by. So "McLeod of Craggan-croft" was the result.

"What cheer, my boy, what cheer?"
called out a very stout manuscript in bluß, hearty tones while the other manuscripts politely made room for the new arrival. The speaker was "The Captain of the Sloop." It had been glasses to whom the editor had given me said there was something the matter with his heart and he couldn't risk the excitement. I'm sure," pathetically, "I didn't understand him."

"Aw, yer better be huggin' yerself they didn't give yer the snicker," broke in a great, cosrse voice. It was "Andy of the Slums" and most of the other manuscripts shuddered. "Andy of the Slums" the Literary Young Person considered one of her most brilliant efforts. A very brief conversation with the ash man who visited her back yard every day and furnished her with material. "Andy of the Siums," however, was not popular with the rest of the manuscripts and they ignored his remark. But Andy, of course, wasn't supposed to have any of the finer feelings, and he went right on. "A cuss wot looked as if he's had is face pushed read me sloud. Betcher yer life there a'n't none o' yer been read aloud?" he demanded sgrievedly. "I never have, certainly," said "The Wreath of Violets" with cold courtesy. "What are you about?" she inquired kindly, endeavoring to cover up the embarrassing silence of her companions. "There's me and there's two herwins.

fittest, I presume," remarked "An Eplgrammatic Courtship," as if it really couldn't help it.

"I'm from Edibroo," put in the Scotchman, who had been rather crowded out of the conversation since his opening remarks, "but the long-haired chap that read me said that never in the heavens above, or on the earth beneath, nor in the waters under the earth was to be found such a lingo as mine. Considered from that point o' view, he said, it was the most original manuscript that had ever been sent in. Hoot mon!" McLeod inserted 'he latter phrase as a sort of afterthought. He knew it ought to fit in some place.

"Whatever alls ye, mon." he ejaculated a little later for "A London Romance" was rolling around in its very small space as if it were suddenly selzed with convulsions.

"The joke—survival of the fittest. He, he, don't you see," it gasped.

"Oh, come off," growled Andy roughly. "If that ain't just—".

There's no knowing what might have followed, for "A London Romance" was known to be touchy and Andy was not popular, but, luckily, just at this moment the manuscripts felt themselves and their prison house lifted bodily up and they knew, by the severe jostling, that they were being carried down stairs.

"Thank you, Jennie," said a very weet volce. "Did you being the bev?

that they were being carried down stairs.

"Thank you, Jennie," said a very sweet voice. "Did you bring the key? Very well. Just set the box on the table." The manuscripts received another unpleasant joiting when the box was set down as directed.

"There is something, Roland," went on the sweet voice, and all the manuscripts pricked up their ears, for, of course, they were sentimental, "that I want to say to you before I open the box."

scripts pricked up their ears, for, of course, they were sentimental, "that I want to say to you before I open the box."

"Yes, sweetheart," answered a deep and respectfully admiring voice. "What is it, dearest?"

"I have given you my life, Roland, freely and unreservedly," continued the sweet voice, and all the manuscripts started in astonishment. They recognized the Literary Young Person. Her heroines invariably spoke in precisely the same fashion. "I will not deny, dear heart," the voice went on, growing even sweeter and more velvity. "that it has been something of a struggle to give up my career, my dream of fame, but I do it gladity, willingly." There was a muffled sound and "The Wreath of Violets" knew it was a kiss and it also shrewdly guessed that the Literary Young Person was sitting on Somebody's knee. You see, "The Wreath of Violets" was experienced in that sort of thing. "This is what I want to say," said the sweet voice—"Yer a long time spittin' it out," muttered "Andy of the Slums" sotto voice, with a coarseness that made the other manuscripts shudder. But, of course, the Literary Young Person didn't hear the remark and she went on in a voice that had become rather tearful.

"If in years to come, when, perhaps, your love"—there was no doubt about it now, the Literary Young Person didn't hear the remark and she went on in a wole that had become rather tearful.

"If in years to come, when, perhaps, your love"—there was no doubt about it now, the Literary Young Person was weeping in a choked sos of way—"on his shoulder, no doubt," mused the sentimental "Wreath of Violets"—"will have grown cold—Ah, yes, I know," for Somebody had managed to interject an indignant "Darling"—"remember I will never have a regret for that vanished laurel wreath that might have wreathed my brow." You see, the Literary Young Person was only 19, so in a way was excusable.

"Say that you believe me," she besought Somebody agitatedly. "Say that you will never let this shadow come between us."

"It never will, beloved. Never, ne

You see, darling, publishers are horrid and if one has any real talent they're jealous, of course, and won't give the writer a show. You know all publishers are unsuccessful writers. At any rate that's what I read once and I believe it. So here's good-by to ail my literary labors," and with a jerk the box was unlocked, the cover thrown open and the manuscripts scattered in a white heap on the hearth rug. A pretty young woman with fluffy golden hair stood gazing down on them with a little frown on her face as though she were bewildered at their number.
The handsome young fellow in the big arm chair ignored the manuscripts and looked only at the girl. His eyes were almost painfully revenling. The leapling flames in the grate flickered lovingly on the girl's white gown and sunny head.
"Help me. Roland." she said imperiously, as she stooped to gather up the manuscripts. The latter were all trembling visibly, but the Literary Young Person was too much engrossed to heed them.
"Here goes," she said happily. And plump! right into the very heart of the flames went the manuscripts. Roland added another pile and but one manusoript remained. It had rolled underneath a corner of the rug. It was "The Wreath of Violets." The Literary Young Person looked at it thoughtfully for a minute. "Dear," she said softly, turning to Somebody a lovelit face, "I think I'll keep this if you don't mind, because—because—" shyly, "It has you for a hero."

RAILPOAD NOTES.

The Washington Heights Lodge of the Fraternal Brotherhood take a trolley trip to Santa Monica this evening.

Tomorrow the Modern Woodmen of the World will visit Santa Monica for the purpose of organizing the "Southern California Log Rolling" Association. They will go in parties by the trolley line. An entertaining programme is announced.

Con Smith, local freight agent of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, will go to San Francisco today.

T. A. Whittemore, general manager of the Consolidated Cattle Company, is here from Chicago on a visit. When S. B. Hynes was general freight agent of the Santa Fé, Mr. Whittemore was his assistant.

W. G. Nevin, general manager, and A. G. Wells, general superintendent of the Santa Fé, have gone East.

George A. Hazzard, assistant to George F. Herr in the Southern Pacific ticket office, is home from his vacation.

Bishop Joseph H. Johnson, who went east some weeks ago, will tomorrow sail from New York for France and Germany. He will return to this city about October 16.

OTHER MATCHES.

In the semi-finals of the men's doubles A. C. Way and A. E. Bell beat Claud Faithful and J. R. Britton, 6-2, 9-7. The last set was a close one and was saved from Britton and Eaithful by a margin of less than an inch. This close shave occurred when the score was 7-6 in favor of the team that lost. At 29-40, when only one point was needed. Britton passed Bell at the side line and the ball went out less than an inch. Bell and Way pulled up after that and won.

C. P. Murdock and R. Hunt played a close match to see who would face Bell in the finals of the singles. Murdock took the first set, Hunt the second and Murdock the last, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, YESTERDAY'S SUMMARY.

PROM AN OCCASIONAL CONTRIBUTOR.]

The career of one of earth's powerful kings, albeit uncrowned, is suddenly closed. His remains are conveyed in royal state from his princely summer home in the Adirondacks to his palatial residence in the metropolis. His private train, with a cortige of friends and attendants is given the right of way over a highway crowded with the traffic of a nation.

This uncrowned king, commanding revenues approximating in volume those of the general government, was not an executive officer of the nation; he did not sit in the halls of legislation, he had not been clothed with judicial ermine, he never presided at the marts of commerce, he had engineered no great manufacturing the terprise, yet public officials and mercantile combines yielded to his will, and all industrial interests paid enforced tribute to his exchequer.

This uncrowned king was not vested with the scepter of authority by royal inheritance, by popular election, or by military conquest. He did not acquire his vast power over his fellow-men by employing the maste gifts of oratory, by the arts of the skillful advocate, by masterly thought in the editorial arena, nor by any of the agencies which have hitherto held sway over men's minda, and exercised control over their actions.

It was by using his undelegated and almost unlimited and irresponsible

Bell's match with Murdock yesterday brought out some good tenis, and the grand stand was packed to see it. Murdock won the toss and choos the north court. Bell served and walked off very daintily with the first game, which proved to be the keynote of the inatch. Bell was everywhere that the northerner chose to drive the ball, and he planted it at will in any section of his opponent's garden which looked vacant. Bell's superiority appeared in the quickness of his movements and the great strength of his write in volleying and returning balls write in volleying and returning balls with the returned one or two that had passed him, whirling around and thrusting his racquet under the ball and giving it a sharp twist over his shoulder.

The sup-porters of James McLachlan are claiming a large proportion of everything in sight. The extent to which these claims are justified by facts is a debatable ques-tion. It is not improbable, however, that a majority of the candidates nominated at the Assembly district caucuses are pledged to McLachlan, and would vote for him in the convention if the action of these caucuses were ratified at the

But the final word has not by any means been spoken. The Republican voters of this Congress district are yet to have their innings. Born Tired.

A second young man, very wide awake and with the gleam in his eye that characterises the inveterate joker, came along and stopped. He regarded the sleeper with a thoughtful glance which said, as loud as words: "I wonder what I ought to do to him!"

For several moments he stood and pondered. Then he noticed the open hand. Cautiously he approached and knelt beside the sleeper. Very carefully he filled the unconscious man's hand with dry sand—as much as it would hold. This done, he retired, sat down upon a bench and waited patiently for the reward of his industry to come along.

Presently the sleeper moved. He lifted his hand to his face and the dry sand poured into his open mouth and trickled merrilly over his eyes and into his ears. He sprang up with a smothered yell and hegan to sputter forth sand in large quantities. It was very entertaining; but the joker, seated upon the bench, did not even smile. The rudely-awakened one was fighting mad, that was evident; but how could he suspect the sad-eyed gentleman who sat upon the bench, smoking his eigar and gazing out to sea with a look of poesy upon his innocent brow?

Engines Bump at a Junction in Los Angeles.

Both Engineers Claim They Were Right. Injured by Jumping.

The engines attached to the Santa Monica and San Pedre trains came together sideways shortly ofter 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon on Alameda street a short distance south of the Arcade station, where the Santa Monica track branches off from the main line. The collision was due to a misunderstanding of the signals on the part of the engineers. Both trains were coming in and one was a few minutes late. They arrived at the junction at the same time, and both engineers kept on, attempting to gain right of way on the main track each thinking that the other intended to stop.

thinking that the other intended to stop.

When they came together the cylinder on one side of each engine was knocked off, but beyond this no especial damage was done to the steam horses, on account of the low rate of speed at which they were going. Neither locomitive left the track.

After the accident each engineer of the Santa Monica train, when he saw that a collision was inevitable, jumped to the ground, sustaining a broken collar priday; continguist Cloudy Friday; cont

M'DERMOTT ESTATE.

WIDOW TO BE PITIED.

The estate of William McDermott-deceased, with a grist of perplexities knotty enough to disconcert a Philadel-phia lawyer, bobbed up in the probate court again yesterday for settlement of the final account of the special administratrix, Carrie McDermott. There has been a deal of trouble over this account before.

McDermott, when he died in May.

McDermott, when he died in May, 1898, was proprietor of the Fashion livery stables, at No. 219 East First street, worth $7000 or $8000, and returning an income of about $300 a month. He left a will bequeathing most of his property to Mrs. McDermott.

Pending the probate of the will Mrs. McDermott was appointed special administratrix of the estate. She attempted to keep up the stables, but lost much money in the venture. Her attorney was A. J. Sherer, Eaq., who did all her business for her. Through her hands passed about $4300 in cash, out of which she paid the expenses of the livery stable and a lot of claims against the estate.

SUITS TO OPEN AN ALLEY. the City Council in verious forms for more than three years, has again reached the courts. The City Attor-ney, by order of the Council, has instilivery stable and a lot of claims against the estate.

In June, 1899, she presented her final account and tendered a resignation as special administratrix. Public Administrator Kellogg was appointed as her successor. To him all there was to turn over was $32.35 out of several thousand dollars, from which she avers that she received less than $100. As to the balance she knows practically nothing. Her final account was disallowed, and afterward a new one ordered presented.

ance she knows practically nothing. Her final account was disallowed, and afterward a new one ordered presented. It is now alleged by the heirs and by the creditors of the estate, one of whom is Bishop Montgomery, that she paid out money for claims against the estate without power or authority, and the effort has been made to charge these items against Mrs. McDermott, and then sue her bondsmen, the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, to recover. Such amount was figured at about $1900.

The matter has been to the Supreme Court once already. If the litigation now pending goes against Mrs. McDermott, she may get little more than nothing from a plethoric estate—and all her trouble and worry thrown in. The court once ordered her paid a family allowance of $75 a month, but she was only paid a few dollars.

The McDermott heirs propose to contest his will, the necessary preliminary steps having already been taken. They

The McDermott heirs propose to contest his will, the necessary preliminary steps having already been taken. They aver that Carrie McDermott is not the surviving widow; that another undivorced husband was living at the time she thought she married McDermott, Mrs. McDermott was once an actress in Ahis city.

VANDEVORT WILL LARGE ESTATE FOR PROBATE.

was filed for probate in the Superior Court yesterday.

The petitioner is the widow, Florence Vandevort. The value of the estate of the deceased is $589,000, of which $107,000 is real property, and $482,000 is personal, all his separate property. The will bears date of January 14, 1895, and in it Mrs. Vandevort is named as executrix, in which capacity she consents to act. All the property is left to the widow, aged 32, and an only daughter, Dorothy Elisabeth Vandevort, aged 8, both residing in Pasadena. The deceased was 48 years of age when he executed his will. The subscribing witnesses were A. R. Metcalfe, Esq.; P. B. Wetherby and Emil Kayser, all of Pasadena.

BAD LITTLE BOY. BARELY MISSED STATE PRISON. An information was filed in the Su-perior Court yesterday charging Fred Howman of Santa Monica with grand larceny.

Fred is only 11 years old, and the information against him was many times larger than the boy. But he stole a watch from a man named William Cadman on the 5th inst., and but for comwatch from a man named William Cadman on the 5th inst., and but for compassion shown by Judge Fitzgerald Fred would have been a felon. As it turned out, however, he was sent to the Whittier reform school.

The arraignment of the lad yesterday gave a surprise to everybody. He was such a youth, tow-headed, bashful and with brown eyes that drooped, although his face is bold beyond his years. The court was unwilling that the criminal case should proceed any farther. He felt that, although the boy had admitted that he stole the watch, it would be wrong to send him to the penitentiary, and thus brand him a felon. Consequently he advised that some different action be taken up against the obstreperous youth. The mother, Evaline Howman, testified that the boy's father had been dead a year, leaving three children; that the boy had been sent to public school and that he was able to read and write. She has had much trouble with him on account of disobedience, running away from home and bitter obstinacy. The mother has to work away from home, and this has given the lad opportunity to associate with bad street boys although he is not vicious. Mrs. Howman felt, however, that she had lost all control of her son, and wished him sent to the reform school.

His extreme youth saved him. The criminal proceedings were accordingly dismissed and he was ordered committed to Whittler.

MORE DAM TROUBLE. An in-junction suit was begun yesterday in the Superior Court by William L. Alex-ander and seven other plaintiffs against Anderson Rose and thirty-three other defendants, asking that the defendants be forever enjoined from interfering with a dam built in the Ballona Creek as early as 1863. This suit is an after-math to much other litigation just cleared up over water rights in the Ballona district.

advances by Felt, the children ran home badly frightened. Little Marguerite was so excited that she could not sleep that night.

The principal witnesses against Felt at the trial yesterday were the two little Stoll girls and their mother. Felt, in his own defense, testified that he merely admired little Marguerite's red shoes and stockings, and in a spirit of playfulness placed his hand on one of her feet. He also tickled her knee and took her in his arms and asked her for a kiss in exchange for the flowers. He denied that he had any evil designs or that he caressed the child in anything but a fatherly manner.

The case was submitted to the jury shortly after noon. It was expected that a verdiet of technical battery would be speedily forthcoming, so the jury was locked up without lunch. The jurors soon began to clamor for something to eat, and sent out word that they could not agree. But the court let them fast till 4:30 o'clock, when they announced that they stood one for conviction and eleven for acquittal. The eleven "stubborn" men declared they could never be won over to the twelfth man's way of thinking, and the lone juror was equally firm in his opinion. The court therefore discharged the jury and set the case for retrial on August 31.

The defendant, who had heretofore been confined in the City Jall, in default of ball, was released on his own recognizance, in view of the almost unanimous stand which the jury took in his favor. But Felt's liberty was of short duration. He escape@com the frying pan only to hop into the fire. for as soon as he was released an officer from Orange county took him into custody and whisked him off for trial there on the charge of indecent exposure.

It is alleged that Felt some months ago flagrantly insulted some little girls on a public highway in Orange county. The children told their parents about the affoir, and a warrant for the old man's arrest was issued, but he eluded capture, and his whereabouts was not known until his arrest for a similer offense in Los Angeles was c

When the case against Henry Henderson, charged with petty larceny, was called for the second time for trial, by Justice Austin, yesterday, the defendant did not respond and his attorney was forced to admit that his client had levarted. The culprit's ball, $50 had levanted. The culprit's bail, $50 cash, was accordingly forfelled and a bench warrant for his arrest issued, Henderson is the man who used the to swindle women looking for lucrative employment. His scheme was to repre-sent himself as a widowed capitalist keeper. Mrs. N. E. Harris, a widow of meager purse, took the bait and got ready to go to Bakersfield with Henderson, who conducted his negotiations with her under an assumed name. In addition to taking charge of his domestic establishment at Bakersfield, Henderson also held out to her inducements of matrimony.

In order to make the journey to Bakersfield, Mrs. Harris converted her little personal property into cash, realizing about $35. When ready to depart, Henderson accompanied her to the Arcade Depot to put her aboard a train, he promising to follow with a carload of oil machinery.

But, while taking leave of her friends at the Arcade Hotel, Mrs. Harriss purse was rifled of her $35. She did not discover her loss until she reached Bakersfield, where she found herself friendless and penniless in a strange town. After waiting a few days for Henderson to show up she realized that she had been duped, and she was then forced to pawa her trunk in order to get enough money to return to Los Angeles.

Mrs. Harris, upon reflection, recolgeles.

Mrs. Harris, upon reflection, recollected circumstances which led her to believe that it was Henderson who stole her money, and she accordingly had a warrant issued for his arrest. Henderson avoided the officers for some time, but was eventually caught and mprisoned, but was speedily released in $50 cash ball deposited by his sisternlaw.

on so cash call deposited by in sister-iaw.

It was surmised from the start that Henderson would jump his ball, and this suspicion was confirmed when his time-for trial came and he could not be found. His attorney, however, gave positive assurance that Henderson would turn up, if granted a continuance, but he was no more in evidence yesterday than on the former occasion, so his ball was confiscated.

Henderson has not been seen in Los Angeles for some weeks, and the city is considered, by the police, well rid of his presence.

The first was a bond for $20,000 to secure all damages that might at any time be awarded to the city, should it be finally determined that the water company was not entitled to the relief granted by the court.

The second was for $50,000, to secure to the rate payers all overcharge for water rents, in case it should be determined that the lower rates fixed by the ordinance should have been collected.

Judge Ross then made an order restraining the city from further interference, and giving to the water company the right to go ahead and collect the old rates, regardless of the city ordinance.

This practically terminates the matter, though what move may next be made by the city is not known.

the Executive Committee of the Republican County Central Committee, precinct primaries for the election of delegates to the Republican State Convention at Santa Cruz, September 5, will be held in this county tomorrow, the polls being open from 12 o'clock noon until 7 p.m. By a recent decision of the Sixth District Congressional Committee the delegates selected at the primaries to go to the State Convention will also act as delegates to the Congressional Convention, which will be held at Santa Barbara next Wednesday. The personnel of the election boards and the places of holding the primaries will be the same as under the call issued by the Board of Supervisors in accordance with the now defunct Stratton primary law.

It is distinctly stated that all the expenses of caucuses, conventions and primaries must be met by those participating in them. Any vacancies in the election boards will be filled by the Republicans present at the opening of the polls. The officers are urged to make prompt and correct returns of all the results properly signed so as to facilitate the work of the County Central Committee. The predict boundaries for the primaries are the same as those fixed by the Board of Supervisors for the primaries are the same as those fixed by the Board of Supervisors for the ensuing election.

The precincts in the county and the polling places as they have been officially fixed at headquarters for the precincts in the various Assembly districts are as follows:

It was reported this week that one of the richest underground reservoirs in Los Angeles county had given out, and that there was no prospect of a re-newal of the water supplies it had been furnishing until a season of great rainfall had occurred. On my way east to Pomona yesterday I saw about the usual streams of water coming from the pumps at San Dimas, from whence so many irrigators are getting their supplies, and inquiry developed the fact that the subterraneous waters of that section were still in evidence. The water level is gradually lowering, it is true, but there is no famine star. furnishing until a season of great raining the farmers in the face by any means. It was often impossible to fill orders from any one of these that would satisfy the customer in every point, and as the concerns could not act together, the service of supplying lemons promptly and to order was very poor. Mr. Dreher is very emphatic in the assertion that whether sold to dealers or handled on the collegerative plan, there should be a centralization of lemons in every district, and he has very clear ideas as to how it should be done. I know of one speculative firm that always aims to keep enough fruit in stock to fill all reasonable demands, and if the stock runs low the manager gets out and rustles till he gets the stock up to the required quantity again. That firm is one of the most successful in the State, and I believe it is largely due to the readiness which the firm has of filling its orders.

The article upon fumigation published in The Times a week or so ago has done some good in awakening growers to the losses they are sustaming by not keeping their trees clean. I was in the office of a large shipping firm Tuesday evening, when the manager was receiving orders for Valencia oranges, just arrived in the eastern markets. On one carlond he was accepting the offer without question. He stated that that earload had been washed and showed a large percentage of decay, and that he could not take

I see some localities are awarding their cyanide contracts to the lowest bidder. Well, that plan should be tempered with 100 per cent. of good judgment, or failure may follow the use of the goods obtained by undercutting. The best practice I find is that of the orchardist buying his own cyanide and paying the fumigators just for applying it. It may be a little foreign to fumigation, but I

For the Fruit Trees.

A PROJECT is en foot to organise an irrigation system at the head of the lake which is of much targer scope than any heretofore attempted in the valley: In other words, it is to take in 1000 or 1200 acres of the territory at the west end of the lake not already in the West End irrigation system, and also the strip of land between the lake and the mountains on the south side to include the Lakeland tract. A test well is to be put down at the south end of Riverside street as soon as practicable, and there is every reason to suppose that from 150 to 200 inches of water can easily be secured there. We hope the project will be pushed right along. This valley is bound to be well irrigated some time, and the sooner it is an accomplished fact the sooner the present land owners will be sure of good crops and the sooner new people will come in and settle on the unimproved acres of rich soil.—[Elsinore Press.

THERE were 131 loads of western tice I find is that of the orchardist buying his own cyanide and paying the fumigators just for applying it. It may be a little foreign to fumigation, but I know of one town in this section with three or four miles of sidewalk laid on that plan. The walk is without a break or a flaw, although in use thirteen years. The cement was purchased by the company which built the walk—the company which built the walk—the company which built the walk—that was furnished him, in the proportion stipulated by theacompany and under the supervision of the agent. It is the most successful and permanent job of its kind in the State, and shows that skimping in quantity and quality of cement does not pay. Neither does it pay to skimp in the quantity or quality of cyanide in the removal of scale. The experience in letting fumigating contracts to the lowest bidder has always been disastrous. Do not do it.

THERE is a well-founded belief that the cow who is a persistent milker does not produce the best calves. While this is so, the methods generally habits aifaifa differed from most other plants, but the full extent of this difference was never fully brought home to me until last fall while excavation for a cellar in alfaifa sed. The soil in question is a light loam, with occasional thin streaks of clay. It had been well plowed in the fall of 1897, and the winter frosts left it in prime shape for seeding in early May.

I used twenty pounds of seed per acre, which proved to be rather too much, considering the fine condition of the soil, as it gave a probable average of twenty plants per foot. The excavation was made 5½ feet deep. Much to my astonishment, one square foot of the cellar bottom white tap-roots shooting straight down into the unknown depths below, white tower the whole area an average of thirteen or fourteen was maintained. In six months' growth two-thirds of these plants had sent their tap-roots more than 5½ feet in quest of water.—[F. M. Crane, in Farmers' Advocate.

When the Supervisors met last Wednesday Mr. Cundiff gave the board notice that the supply of cyanide was about exhausted and the board authorized him to secure bids from the various dealers and then accept the lowest bid.

Bids were received from Hook Bros.,
Week, Seßrell and Heath & Morrison, and the first-named bid was just a fraction lower on the pound than the others.

The price the county will have to pay for this ton of the drug is the lowest by a small margin that any has ever been bought. Mr. Cundiff says that all four bids were exceedingly close, and that the figure of the highest was lower

I have yet to learn that the fuller-feathered srticle is one whit less of a layer. The facts are, the bird is improved in this respect, if any change has occurred. Of course it stands to reason that, being larger, they represent a heavier meat carcass. The young will be larger boned and they will grow with more rapidity because they have more room to grow.

There is now a separate standard for the heavyweights, as they are on the Work of Agricultural Colleges.

Work of Agricultural Colleges.

Work of Agricultural Colleges.

The work of the agricultural college does not consist altogether in sending its students back to the farm in condition to become better tillers of the soil or better breeders of stock than their fathers were. This is but a small part of what we should expect from them. They should send out many who are qualified to instruct others by becoming teachers themselves. It is not all of a teacher to understand his subject, but he must be able to impart his knowledge to others so that they will understand it. One of the best teachers we ever knew was not what would be called an educated man, but what he knew he could exploin so that almost the simplest intellect could learn from him. There are others so highly educated that they speak in terms that are as "unknown tongues" to those whom they desire to instruct. They cannot teach those who are more than one degree below them in attainment. They need an interpreter. Some such have written for agricultural papers, and we have even seen some bulletins from colleges and experiment stations that we thought were written by such learned ignoramuses, whose writings were of little use to farmers seeking information. Then there are others whose college education and natural abilities fit them to be always students. They will investigate carefully and with much painstaking, perhaps, only in the end to find that they have but proven scientifically facts that the practical man learned long ago by costly experience. Yet many of their investigations lead to a knowledge of new facts, which practical men make useful. The investigations of Frank-lin into the nature of electricity, apparently useless at the time, opened the way for the investigation of frank-lin into the nature of electricity, apparently useless at the time, opened the way for the investigations of Frank-lin into the nature of electricity, apparently useless at the time, opened the way for the investigation in the every day duties of a farmer's life, therefore let us not think the work of t is decidedly quiet in the lo-ate market just now. Even serty the demand is not so it was a few months ago, artly be accounted for by it so many dealers are now sit yacations in the country; large an amount of spare been diverted into the oil late, much of which money rules have gone into real siments.

ARGE RENTS FOR RESIDENCES Some of the rents that are paid for comparatively inferior residences on ashionable London streets are sufficient comparatively inferior residences on fashlonable London streets are aufficient to make the average Los Angeles landlord turn green with envy. Pretty nealy everybody understands, of course, that house rents are very considerably greater in London than they are in provincial towns, and that in the metropolis they vary greatly and are very stiff in the regions in which society hovers. But a writer in Tit-Bits ventures to think that even few Londoners have much idea of the enormous figures paid for the rentals of fashlonable houses in Belgravia and Mayfar, or realize how few square yards of the west end it takes to produce a million sterling in this way. The English paper referred to says:

Now. take to start with Park Lane, that highly fashionable thoroughfare. It is rather staggering to learn that $50,000 a year is really not at all a very extravagant rent to pay for a good house in this quarter. The plain, simple fact of the matter is, however, that you cannot get a decent house here for less than $15,000, and even such a one would only have three or four bedrooms, and, generally speaking, would not have greater accommodation than a house at $250 or $200 a year in the suburbs; or at half that price in a provincial town.

"Grosvenor Square and Berkeley square are renowned headquarters of society which pays astonishingly for its residence there.

"Consider the former first. The whole square comprises fewer than sixty houses, but it is a fact that their combined annual rental is about $750,000. Big as the rents are, getting a house here is a matter of great difficulty, and soldon is there one to let for long. Nothing can be got for less than $5000 a year, and from this figure an intending tenant may go up to $30,000 a year.

"Berkeley Square is likewise difficult to get into. It is rather old-fashioned and severe, and the average man or woman from the country might not be able to see anything about the houses which would justify a heavy drain being made upon a tenant's pocket. But, all the same, houses here are always at a premium, and you will not get much of a residence for $2500 a year, nor yet, so far as that goes, is the accommodation very astonishing if $10,000 a year is paid.

"St. James's Square is another ultrafashionable quarter which a millionaire might have to wait years to get into if he desired to live there—$15,000 or year is quite a moderate rent for a house-so situated—while Norfolk House, where the Duke of Norfolk resides, and such others as Lord Derby's residence, at $3, would easily realize scosts its tenants dearly. At least $20,000 a year in rent.

"Carlton House Terrace, where statesmen and ambassadors live, also costs its tenants dearly. At least $20,000 a year in rent.

This vast amount of refined, is equivalent to at least 400,000,000 barrels of crude oil, or about half the total production of Pensylvania oil since the early days of Oil Creek. It is the Standard Oil Company that has kept this immense amount of oil flowing in a steadily increasing stream to other shores. We are producing every year about twice as much oil as we need for our dwn home consumption. If no foreign market had been created for this surplus, if Russia had been suffered to conquer the markets of the world unopposed and unchecked, the effect upon the American oil industry can better be imagined than described. The producing interest would simply have been paralyzed, stocks would have accumulated to such an extent and prices decreased to such a point that oil producing, save in some few favored locations, would have ceased as an industry. This would have left many of our present fields undeveloped and unknown, and the country at large would have suffered to an extent represented by the dollars that have been received in refered to an extent represented by the dollars that have been received in refered to an extent represented by the dollars that have been received in refered to an extent represented by the dollars that have been received in refered to an extent represented by the dollars that have been received in refered to an extent represented by the dollars that have been received in refered to an extent and received in refered to an extent represented by the dollars that have been received in refered to an extent represented by the dollars that have been received in refered to an extent and received in refered to an extent represented by the dollars that have been received in refered to an extent represented by the Totals... ....16,839,100,000 $1,379,208,000

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKETS.

LOB ANGELES MARKETS.

Changes for a week have been few and very small.
Very little business is reported in dried apricots at 5½ to 6 cents from first hands for good stock. No business is reported in peaches or prunes in the local market. Buyers are indifferent to all dried fruits.
Flour is steady, following a firm wheat market.
Hides, tallow and wool are dull. At the East wool is in a better shape.
Live mock and fresh meats are all firm.

Live stock and fresh meats are all firm.

Eggs are becoming unsettled. Eastern standard are generally held for 17 to 17½ cents, some for 18. Extra-select are firm at 20. Local sell for the most part at 22 cents. Butter is very firm, nearly all creamery bringing 55 to 57½ and dairy 50 to 52½.

There is no change to note in cheese, prices being steady.

Some comb honey is being effered from 6an Diego. Holders want 12½ cents, and fancy white honey will bring about that much from first hands. But where the color is not all uniformly light that price is regarded too high.

Live poultry is not so dull as it has been. Supplies are ample and prices do not respond.

White onloss are ample and prices do cents per cental. Fair to extra fancy yellow bring 51 to 51.25, the latter an extreme for fine stock fit to ship.

Lemons are in active demand and firm.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Commercial Advertiser's London finacial cablegram says:
"Business was quite brisk here today. In the early hour the tone was good, earing off a little in the afternoon. The appreach of the relief expedition to Peking is absolutely disregarded. The talk is all of meley now the continued to purchase a passing phase which has already been discounted. London continued to purchase American shares, intil New York selling checked the movement. Paris allowed Tintos to relapse sharply. This was regarded as a trick. The bank bought 4682,000 gold it bars, and expects tomorrow, to receive 2000,000 from the East; gold which has been concealed in quarantine. The bank commenced borrowing money today. Fortuithly estatistics in copper show an increase of $557 tons in the supply. In this report copper shares relapsed."

ACTON. FATAL ACCIDENT. ACTON, Aug. 16.—[Regular Correspondence.] Charles Hunt, a telegraph operator, who came to California from the East in search of employment, met a horrible death yesterday morning. He was camping in Gleason Cañon, and while out hunting doves, stumbled over a log and his gun was discharged, the two loads of shot tearing off his right shoulder and part of his face. He died soon afterward. A widow and two small children are left in destitute circumstances.

ANAHEIM.

BAWDY NUISANCE.

ANAHEIM, Aug. 18.—[Regular Correspondence.] The return of a house of illfame to the town has brought more complaints from citizens, who demand of the City Trustees that they take action to remove the nuisance permanently. The Trustees last night instructed the Town Marshal to notify the women to leave, and to inform the owner of the property that failure on the part of the women to decamp would result in legal action against him. The women it is desired to oust are four in number, and say they will stay. If the authorities force the fighting, the proprietress is alleged to have declared, she will make it uncomfortable for several people in high local places.

The old City Board of Health has been discovered to be a live corpse under the law, and has been instructed to resume active existence. As the health officer acted on his own responsibilities during the interim in which the status of the board as to life was in question, and had the town thoroughly cleaned and inspected, there is not now much for the body to do. The health of the town has been excellent and far better than usual at this period of the year. There are no feveres or contagious diseases and sanitary conditions are good.

FISH RECORD BROKEN.

The yellowtail record, for one man and one rod, in one day has been broken three times this season. For two seasons it rested with a Mr. Beard. Last season F. S. Schenck held it, and up to yesterday Mr. Schenck was in the lead for this season, with twenty-five fish. yesterday he raised the record to twenty-six, but Col. Eddy went him several better and raised it to thirty-three, and his lead is so good that it will hardly be changed. A number of good-sized fish were brought in yesterday. George Gaie had one weighing thirty-four pounds; Mr. Schenck one weighing thirty-two pounds, and several in Mr. Banning's party were above the thirty mark. Messrs. Schenck and Eddy's combined catch is the record season's catch for two rods. They had fifty-nine yellowtail, three ablicore, twenty-four rock bass, eighty-six fish altogether, aggregating 1500 pounds.

George Gale, at the Isthmus yesterday, caught ten yellowtail and twenty bass and white fish.

W. D. Beck, S. B. Timmons, Hunan Weaver and L. S. Bristol caught twenty yellowtail and ten bass at the Isthmus yesterday.

Dr. Thaddeus Johnson and wife were at the Isthmus and brought in fourteen yellowtail and twenty-two bass.

F. J. Robberts and W. A. Baldwin got thirty-four yellowtail and seventeen bass and a bonita.

F. S. Smith-and Sheriff Wakefield of Tucson were out together. They caught fifteen yellowtail, ten ablicore and seven bass.

Mr. Banning's party to the Isthmus yesterday, which included Lieut. Commander and Mrs. Nicholson caught thirty-five yellowtail and several albicore. Mr. Nicholson caught nine of these and Mrs. Nicholson was starting equally well, but unfortunately on her second fish the reel crank smashed into her thumb, splitting the nail, which put a stop to her sport.

BREVITTES AND PERSONALS,
A sailor from the Farragut got tangled up with too much "forty-rod" whisky last evening and was making a spectacle of himself when a petty officer ordered him to go out to the ship. He refused and started in to lick the officer. He found he was "up against the real thing," for the officer knocked him down before he could say "scat." He jumped to his feet, still belligerent, and again the officer sent him to grass. A third time he was knocked down, and then the jackle was bundled into a boat and started for the ship. When about fifty yards from shore he jumped overboard and swem for shore. The officer put back and when he emerged from the water he was confronted hy him again and was ordered back. He refused and was knocked down the fourth time and dragged into the boat. He was held until the ship was reached. BREVITIES AND PERSONALS

Mr. Griffith with a twinkle in his eye said that a few years ago he had half a dozen or more applications for every job on the ranch and at less wages, but now it is quite different, it being almost impossible to get the labor neeled in order to properly care for the crops; that he did not see how matters could be remedled unless Bryan be 'lected, in which event he thought there would be several idle men for every job in the county.

Edward Lays, a sallor who has been residing in this city for the past year, in company with four other members of the "craft," left today for San Francisco to enlist in the navy. Lays served in the Spanish-American war on the Battleship lowa. The young men expect to go to China.

Santa Ana protably has a lower rate for domestic use than any other city in the State—the cost being but 31 per month. The water is supplied from artesian wells.

Santa Ana has sixty-three miles of streets, twelve miles of sement sidewalks and twenty-two miles of sewers, but very few shade trees, on account of the arbitrary course of the Board of City Trustees.

Nothwithstanding the fact that the Santa Ana valley is now going through the third successive dry season it is estimated that the hay crop this year is heavier than last year. This is probably attributable to the increased supply of water obtained through artesian wells, many of which have been put down the past year.

The rush in the peatland celery fields is now over, the greater portion of the acreege being set to young plants. Indications are favorable for a very large crop.

Suit was brought to stop the sinking of wells, the complaint alwater mark. Sult was brought to stop the sinking of wells, the complaint alleging that the operation was for the purpose of draining the oil deposits existing under Ortega Hill. Judge W. S. Day issued a restraining order. The matter came up before Judge B. T. Williams, presiding in the absence of Judge Day, and he gave his order from the bench dissolving the restraining order. The question now to be determined is whether the owner of lands on the ocean has a right to prevent oil derricks and other obstructions being placed in front of his property. The settlement of the question will be of
